Helping Prepare Your Child for Life as an Adult

Federal and state laws mandate transition services for students with Individualized Education Plans (IEPs) by the age of 16. The key to successful transition to adult services is communication. Communication is vital among the student, parents, educators, service coordinators, adult providers and community agencies, such as the Department of Rehabilitation.

As the student approaches age 16, the IEP team should discuss if the student is on track to receive a high school diploma or a certificate of completion. If, at the completion of the student’s high school education, a special education student receives a certificate of completion, he/she is eligible to continue special education services through to age 22. These services may take place in a variety of settings. Many classrooms are not on school settings, but rather are located in business districts so that students can be part of their community.

Beginning at age 16 many special education students participate in work experience programs. These programs help students learn a variety of skills necessary to acquire and keep a job. Skills could include such things as time management, filling out job applications and timecards, learning how to use public transportation, money skills and much more. Goals for these types of skills should be included in the student’s IEP.

Many students who are Regional Center consumers transition to adult programs at age 22. The Regional Center typically funds these programs for their consumers. Parents and students interested in these programs should begin looking at the programs about a year before the student exits from education services. Some of the adult programs having waiting lists, so there may not be openings at the time the student exits from education. Adult programs do not have the same rules/procedures that education has, so parents and students need to talk to the adult programs about the specifics of the services that the student needs, and find out if these services will be provided.

Additionally all adult programs require that the student have a physical examination by a doctor no more that one year before entering the adult program. The adult program or the school can provide parents with the necessary form for the doctor to complete.

Before the student exits from special education services, either by earning a diploma or aging out (turning age 22), the school will provide the student with a summary of his/her academic achievement and functional performance. The report should also include recommendations on how to assist the student in meeting the goals he/she has for adult life.

The key to a smooth transition is preparation. Several education agencies offer workshops for parents regarding the transition process. Talk to your student’s teacher about what you can do to make transition process as smooth as possible for your child.

Introduction to the Hearing Coordination Center
(part of the California Newborn Hearing Screening Program)
by Michelle Barry, MS, CCC-A, Program Audiologist

Building on lessons learned from other states that had already implemented Newborn Hearing Screening Programs (NHSP), California legislation was signed in 1998 which incorporated Hearing Coordination Centers (HCC) into their NHSP. Other states did not incorporate coordination centers in their program and up to 50% of babies screened for hearing loss at birth never received appropriate follow-up or treatment.

There are currently four HCC’s tracking and monitoring newborn hearing-related services over five geographic regions. The Northeastern & Central CA HCC (NECC HCC) serves babies born at 38 different hospitals in 28 counties.

In addition to certifying hospitals to be Inpatient Screening Providers, the NECC HCC tracks screening results for over 70,000 babies per year. When necessary the HCC can assist the approximately 2,000 families who require follow-up (hearing screening at birth was missed, or a refer result was obtained) in getting services. Using this HCC model, very few babies are truly “lost-to-follow-up” and up to 200 permanent hearing losses are identified each year in our region. Based on our prior years’ statistics, the incidence of hearing loss in our region appears to be about 2 per 1,000 babies.

Upon confirmation of hearing loss, the HCC is available to the family or service providers to give informational, non-professional counseling or advocacy assistance. Since the CA NHSP’s inception, the average age of hearing loss identification has dropped below 3 months of age and most babies are able to obtain early intervention services prior to 6 months of age.

Another unique aspect of California’s NHSP is a requirement that each HCC make a parent advocate available to families newly identified with a child who has hearing loss. The NECC HCC is pleased to have Bonnie Burleson, mother of two deaf adult children, in our office. She is very happy to share her experience and empathy with families who are just starting out on a similar journey. . .

To contact one of us directly, or for more information about the CA NHSP, please call us at 916/285-4680, or toll-free 1/877/388-5301. You may also visit the program’s website at http://www.dhs.ca.gov/PCFH/cms/nhsp/.

Are You A Carrot, An Egg or Coffee?

A young woman went to her mother and told her about her life and how things were so hard for her. She did not know how she was going to make it and wanted to give up. She was tired of fighting and struggling. It seemed as one problem was solved, a new one arose.

Her mother took her to the kitchen. She filled three pots with water and placed each on a high fire. Soon the pots came to boil. In the first she placed carrots, in the second she placed eggs, and in the last she placed ground coffee beans. She let them sit and boil, without saying a word.

In about twenty minutes she turned off the burners. She fished the carrots out and placed them in a bowl. She pulled the eggs out and placed them in a bowl. Then she ladled the coffee out and placed it in a bowl.

Turning to her daughter, she asked, "Tell me what you see." "Carrots, eggs, and coffee," she replied.

Her mother brought her closer and asked her to feel the carrots. She did and noted that they were soft. The mother then asked the daughter to take an egg and break it. After pulling off the shell, she observed the hard boiled egg. Finally, the mother asked the daughter to sip the coffee. The daughter smiled as she tasted its rich aroma.

The daughter then asked, "What does it mean, mother?" Her mother explained that each of these objects had faced the same adversity - boiling water. Each reacted differently.

The carrot went in strong, hard, and unrelenting. However, after being subjected to the boiling water, it softened and became weak.

The egg had been fragile. Its thin outer shell had protected its liquid interior, but after sitting through the boiling water, its inside became hardened.

The ground coffee beans were unique, however. After they were in the boiling water, they had changed the water. "Which are you?" she asked her daughter. "When adversity knocks on your door, how do you respond? Are you a carrot, an egg or a coffee bean?"

Think of this: Which am I? Am I the carrot that seems strong, but with pain and adversity do I wilt and become soft and lose my strength?

Am I the egg that starts with a malleable heart, but changes with the heat? Did I have a fluid spirit, but after a death, a breakup, a financial hardship or some other trial, have I become hardened and stiff? Does my shell look the same, but on the inside am I bitter and tough with a hardened heart and spirit? Or am I like the coffee bean? The bean actually changes the hot water, the very circumstance that brings the pain. When the water gets hot, it releases the fragrance and flavor. If you are like the bean, when things are at their worst, you get better and change the situation around you.

When the hour is the darkest and trials are their greatest, do you elevate yourself to another level? How do you handle adversity? Are you a carrot, an egg or a coffee bean?

The happiest of people don't necessarily have the best of everything; they just make the most of everything that comes along their way. The brightest future will always be based on a forgotten past; you can't go forward in life until you let go of your past failures and heart aches. When you were born, you were crying and everyone around you was smiling. Live your life so at the end, you're the one who is smiling and everyone around you is crying.

May you have enough happiness to make you sweet, enough trials to make you strong, enough sorrow to keep you human and enough hope to make you happy.

Editor's Note: I don't know the name of author of this. It was emailed to me by a friend, who got it from a friend, who got it from a friend. If you're the author, I apologize for reprinting it without your permission!
